

Invitation to the Michigan State University community

Please join us for the Friday Forum on Neoliberalism & Public Higher Education

“Neoliberalism in Higher Education and Resistance in the (post) colonial context: Reflections on Palestine, Malawi, and Tanzania”

Neoliberalism and its impact on public goods like education is a global process. In this presentation, we focus on insights from working in higher education institutions in Africa and the Middle East. The panel will discuss how the processes of neoliberalism and fiscal austerity have impacted academic life within these institutions. The presenters will reflect on how their cases are similar or different from each other and from the United States, but also on the difference in reaction to conditions both by students and faculty.

by

Stephen P. Gasteyer, PhD
Department of Sociology
Michigan State University

and

Amy Jamison, PhD
Center for Gender in Global Context &
Alliance for African Partnership
Michigan State University

Friday, March. 17, 2017
10:30 a.m. – Noon
Kellogg Center – Rm 61

The Friday Forum provides a venue for MSU faculty, staff, students and administrators to discuss the transformation of public higher education through the imposition of market logic and relations.

Visit FutureU to learn more about neoliberalism and public higher education:

<http://futureu.education/>