

Julian Samora Research Institute

Latina/o-Focused Postdoctoral Position

A three-year postdoctoral position is available at the Julian Samora Research Institute, Michigan State University in East Lansing, MI (<https://jsri.msu.edu/>). Applicants must have completed their dissertation prior to beginning the postdoctoral fellowship. A doctoral degree in the social sciences or related field (sociology, anthropology; history; psychology, epidemiology, nursing, social work, business) is required. The successful candidate will have:

- Strong quantitative or qualitative analytical skills, or both;
- Experience in conducting research with Latino communities;
- A track record in manuscript production/publishing;
- Must be literate in both English and Spanish.

Content expertise in one of the following areas relative to Latinos is highly preferred: health disparities, business development and entrepreneurship, and/or gaps in service delivery systems and Latino communities.

Appointment: The position is considered full time for 12 months, beginning August 16, 2019, or when filled. Salary will be commensurate with skills and experience. Benefits will be provided. Office space is available.

Application Procedure: Applicants are asked to submit:

- Cover letter describing training, skills, research interests and how they fit with those described above. Also describe your interest in the position.
- Evidence of having completed the requirements for the doctoral degree.
- Name and contact information for three references.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

Electronic submission is required. Materials should be submitted via email to:

Rubén Martínez, Director
Julian Samora Research Institute
Mart1097@msu.edu

Review of full applications begins on July 31, 2019.

For more information please call 517.432.1317.