

Julian Samora Research Institute

Fall 2021 Symposium

“Donald Trump and Jimmy Morales: Entanglements of Transnational Politics and Religion”

In the fall of 2015, one year before Donald Trump became the U.S. president, Jimmy Morales, an evangelical Christian, won the presidential election in Guatemala. This presentation examines the political-religious activism, the transnationally-active networks, and the impact of the Christian Right between these two countries and the broader region.

Andrea Althoff, PhD

Lecturer, German Society of European Academies

Andrea is a sociologist with research interests in the nexus between migration and religion from a transatlantic perspective (Latinos and Muslims), right-wing extremism and Christianity, and human rights. Her book Divided by Faith and Ethnicity: Religious Pluralism and the Problem of Race in Guatemala was published by Walter de Gruyter in 2014.

December 8, 2021

12 Noon EST

Register here

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

University Outreach and Engagement
Julian Samora Research Institute